

6th PSSI Space Security Conference
The Global Space Competition:
Security, Markets and Sanctions

Prague, 19-21 June 2022

Sponsorship Benefits

Since 2011, PSSI has held a series of high-level International Space Security Conferences designed to advance allied decision-making in this critical security portfolio. Five such major conferences have been convened to date, involving leading space security experts and senior officials from Europe, the United States, and Japan. Three have been held in Prague (in 2011, 2016, and 2019), one in Tokyo (in 2013), and one in Washington, DC (in 2017). The key partnering organizations have included the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS), the Japanese Prime Minister's Office of National Space Policy, the European Space Agency (ESA), the European Space Policy Institute (ESPI), Japan's Cabinet Satellite Intelligence Center (CSICE), and the Secure World Foundation (SWF).

PSSI is presently preparing its 6th Space Security Conference. The event will be held on June 19 - 21, 2022 in Prague. We believe that industry participation in, and contribution to, this high-level gathering provides an essential perspective to these proceedings. We would like to invite your company to be part of this world-class event and help move what we call E&F space – or the economic and financial dimensions of space -- into mainstream space security decision-making.

The past conferences have been attended by some 200 senior level civil and military government officials, industry representatives, as well as non-governmental experts. The event is planned to be held at the Czernin Palace (the seat of the Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs) under the auspices of the Czech Ministries of Foreign Affairs, Transport, and Defence.
